U. S., GREAT BRITAIN TO CUT NAVIES

NATIONS TO HOLD ARMS CONFERENCE

WASHINGTON, July 24.—UP—President Hoover followed up his proclamation of the Kellogg peace pact today with almost breath-taking speed by joining Premier MacDonald of Great Britain in suspending present naval building as a basis of negotiations for further disarmament which are expected in the fall when MacDonald plans to visit here.

Just three hours after he had proclaimed the peace pact in the presence of diplomats of more than two score nations which are signatories to it, the president issued a statement at the White House announcing that this country would hold up laying of keels for three cruisers scheduled this fall, pending negotiations for further disarmament.

This matched the announcement of MacDonald today in the British House of Commons that his government would suspend all work on two cruisers, now under construction, cancel a depot ship and two submarines contracted for, and cancel all work on the 1929 naval program until autumn.

New Meet Seen
President Hoover expressed complete accord with MacDonald who had announced that as soon as Anglo-American differences over disarmament are cleared up, which is the purpose of his visit this fall, the powers represented at the 1921 Washington arms conference will be invited to preliminary conferences "so that all together may try to come to an agreement of a comprehensive character."

President Hoover, referring to MacDonald's statement, said "the (Continued on Page 8)

EX-SENATOR, MILLIONAIRE IN FRAUD NET

INDICT PAIR ON BLUE SKY CHARGE

SACRAMENTO, July 24.—UP—A former state senator and a wealthy oil operator were indicted by the county grand jury here today on charges of violating the state sky blue law after complaints from farmers near Hanford that they had lost more than $960,000 through fraudulent operations of the pair.

The bill named J. L. C. Irwin, former law maker in the state upper house, and W. W. McNamara, millionaire.

Explanation of the action was made by Howard E. Ellis, assistant corporation commissioner who said the grand jury acted on the technical grounds that Irwin and McNamara made false representations while converting the Pismo Trust into a corporation to secure permission to issue 40,000 shares of stock.

A pool among farmers near Hanford to raise $40,000 for oil drilling operations on 100 acres of land was organized by Irwin and McNamara. They failed to locate oil and sought to refinance the trust by selling 57 acres to the Alberta Oil company.

Then, according to Ellis, representations were made to the farmers that no progress had been made and 40,000 shares of claimed assessments were made on the stocks and rumors that the land was valueless were circulated at the same time so that the two men could buy back all the stock cheaply. The land involved is said to be worth more than $1,000,000 today.

DEFLECTOR OF WINDS IDEA OF LOCAL MAN

Policemen are supposed to read detective stories on their day off. Mailmen are reputed to take long walks during their leisure moments. But what does an electrical inspector do during his free moments?

That question was solved yesterday by E. M. McLaughlin, Richmond electrical inspector, when he presented fellow employees with an idea for an invention that is expected to revolutionize weather forecasting or something like that. It seems that the winds, common at this time of the year, have been worrying some of McLaughlin's friends quite a little, and they appealed to him for aid. The results were startling.

Plans and diagrams have been completed by McLaughlin for a concrete deflector which might be erected in the path of the onrushing wind. The design is simple, very simple, in fact. The face of the deflector, constructed to face the wind would be of curved construction and slatted, so that the wind would zoom up the deflector, strike the high winds and also prevent them from reaching the point to be protected.

SHIP OWNERS AID LOCAL HARBOR

Richmond took two more important steps yesterday toward establishing itself as an important world port. It was announced at the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

The city of Richmond is to be placed on a basis of complete equality with all other east bay cities by the vessels under control of the Pacific Westbound conference, a group of the largest shippers in the Pacific, and these companies will make Richmond a port of call.

It was announced by Fred Parr of the Parr Richmond Terminals that his company will put shippers on a basis of equality by absorbing charges in cases where cargo is loaded at Richmond and is destined for some other city in the bay region. This will apply to earload lots for all bay points and for less than car load lots to east bay points.

Traffic Officer Lou Bradson yesterday abandoned his role of policeman and played the dashing role of a gallant fireman.

Dashing to the scene, Bradson picked up a garden hose and played it on the blaze. A few minutes later the blaze was extinguished.

Workmen Save Plant From Big Grass Fire

Workmen at the Santa Fe foundry at Sixth street and Enterprise avenue were forced to leave their work early last night to battle a grass fire that threatened the plant.

Fanned by a stiff breeze, the fire gained headway rapidly. For a short time it was feared that the plant would go up in flames.

Richmond firemen were called to the scene and the battle raged for almost an hour before the last ember was stamped out.

The blaze is believed to have been started by a careless smoker who tossed a lighted cigar into the deep grass.

Fighting Parson Beaten By Broker

LOS ANGELES, July 24.—UP—Rev. H. P. "Fighting Bob" Shuler, Los Angeles' radio warrior against vice, displayed two beautiful "black eyes" in the district attorney's office today and demanded that an assault warrant be issued against his assailant.

He said that while he was in an El Monte ice cream parlor a man whom witnesses identified as C. C. Stafford, wealthy grain dealer, attacked him. Stafford is awaiting trial on statutory charges preferred by his former secretary, Miss Rue Schade. While Shuler has not mentioned the case in his regular radio attacks, it was reported that he had obtained a transcript of the case.

Shuler was instructed to obtain positive identification of his assailant. Stafford advised the district attorney's office he would appear Thursday.

Funeral To Be Held For Suicide Victim

Funeral services will be held at St. Mark's Catholic church tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock for Mrs. Catherine Behr, 12, 2223 Barrett avenue who committed suicide yesterday. Interment will be in Holy Cross cemetery San Francisco.

Believed to have been despondent since the death of her mother a year ago, Mrs. Behr locked herself in her room early yesterday morning and took poison. She was dead before aid arrived. Mrs. Behr, her husband, John Henry Behr, and a niece, Miss Louise Frank, had retired to their separate bedrooms at a late hour Tuesday night. Early in the morning they heard screams that aroused the household. Behr rushed to his wife's room to find the door locked.

Dr. W. E. Cunningham was summoned and entrance was forced to the room by means of a winch. Mrs. Behr was in a dying condition and was unable to make a statement.

A packet of powerful poison was found lying on the bureau top.

GOAL OF 300 HOURS SET BY PILOTS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 24.—(UP)—Defying time and gravity with the steady drone of its aircooled motor, the orange-hued monoplane St. Louis Robin, began its twelfth night in the air tonight, more than 24 hours past the previous world's record for sustained flight.

Their ambition apparently as boundless as the endurance of the steel and aluminum of their motor, the Robin's pilots, Dale "Red" Jackson, and Forrest O'Brine, confidently expected to reach the 300 hour mark, their immediate objective.

At 4:17 p. m. (CST) Jackson and O'Brine completed 273 hours in the air, 24 hours beyond the 247 hour mark established a fortnight ago by two Culver City, Calif., fliers, in the biplane Angelino.

Performances of the Angelino and other pioneer planes faded into history as the Robin continued in the "longest flight in aviation. The 159 hour mark of the army ship Question Mark, which landed Jan. 7 at Los Angeles with its crew of five men; the 172 hour mark of flier Hobbs and James Kelly in the Fort Worth, and the 174-hour record of Roy Mitchell and Byron Newcomb at Cleveland have long since fallen before the whirling propeller of the rugged experimental Curtiss-Robertson ship.

The two ambitious fliers, Jackson and O'Brine, are expected to reach the 300 hour mark, their immediate objective.

THE WOMAN OF IT

BY MARGUERITE MOORE MARSHALL

Take, Oh, Take Those Lips Away???

IF life had not enough problems for girls, in this summer of 1929—What with heat waves and the subway and offices where the electric fans are reserved for bosses—What with the difficulty of acquiring a suntan—Which is neither an unglorious burn nor an unsightly freckle—What with the terrible wearing qualities of many of the seamless bareleg stockings—What with most of the nice men being out of town—Or (if girls are out of town) most of the n. m. being back in the city—What with sunbath dress exposing the painful results of a reducing diet—To a cruelly sunlit and unromantic world—As if all these hot weather woes were not enough, Alas comes science to turn the sweetness of summer romance sour.

"Take, oh, take those lips away"—to science echoes Shakespeare. "Necking" is now branded not as immoral but as unhygienic. It's doctors' orders to condemn this popular and traditional sport of American youth. For if any body tries to say that "necking," "petting," "mushing" are new somebody with a gracious memory can retort: "Tut, tut the names are the only new things about the national pastime!" Which Dad and Mother called "spooning."

And which Colonial ancestors called "ouling." Indeed, not even the automobile petting party seems to have anything on the Colonial version of the sport. Yet, here's Dr. Robert A. Kelly, pathologist of the United States Veterans' Bureau, telling a medical convention in Portland, Ore., that "necking" is causing an increase of disease. "People kiss more strenuously than they did fifteen years ago," gravely explains the doctor. "And the result is spread in mouth diseases."

A woman's first flippant reaction to this medical warning is simple wonderment as to whether Dr. Kelly perhaps FORGOTTEN—or never KNOWN—how strenuously people kissed fifteen years ago? A woman who would who HANST forgotten—refuses to give to-day's flaming youth credit. For greater fire, fervor and force "When lip meets lip the kissing," as Kipling describes it. Here's another poetic depletion of that spire of summer romance, a kiss—"A little kiss when no one sees." "Where is the impropriety?" "How sweet amid the birds and bees." "A little kiss when no one sees." "Nor is it wrong the world agrees." "If taken with sobriety." "A little kiss, when no one sees." "Where is the impropriety?"

What woman who remembers a boat, hidden in the shadow of drooping elms, Or a lovers' lane, blue-cooled overhead, place cushioned underfoot. Or a garden, white with moonlight and sweet with red roses and yellow huneysuckle. Or a college campus strung with colored lights and musical with the last wailing notes of the Senior singers, Or a starlit beach with the sea crooning. Or any of the lovely, sentimental scenes of summer romance—Where, even though love be brief it may be beautiful. What romantic woman, in short, can take seriously a doctor's warning against kissing?

As for the youngsters, nobody is going to convince them that they're up against an extra-hazardous sport—A hygienic risk. When they indulge in the usual summer allowance of "strenuous kissing," they might read, if they would, that other scientists endorse it. As an exercise that makes for health. By speeding up sluggish hearts and increasing the circulation of the blood—A stethoscope test proved as much, in New York recently. Oh, well, we fancy the young won't bother much. Over what science says for or against kissing—And anyhow there is as yet no law

Beautiful Homes for Every Income

Windows of Charm and Distinction

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1929

HAVE you considered seriously the decorative part that windows play—or may play—in the planning of beautiful homes? Undoubtedly. And yet, did your thought go far beyond the mere curtaining of them? I am not so sure—for generally speaking, in spite of elaborate over-curtains and dainty undercurtains, American windows lack that friendly arrangement of plants and gay objects which so charming on the Continent and in certain old Boston homes.

Here we do not do half as much with our window gardens as does restrained, conventional Boston, where, in the old manner, almost every good Beacon Hill house has its little "bow" flower window set out against the wall, or inside shelves extended the length of the window and filled with flowers and bits of beautiful old glassware.

This charming old treatment is as fascinating to-day as it was in Colonial times and fits so naturally into the schemes of Boston homes that we would hesitate to add to or subtract from it, although in other surroundings bolder, modernistic groups might suggest themselves.

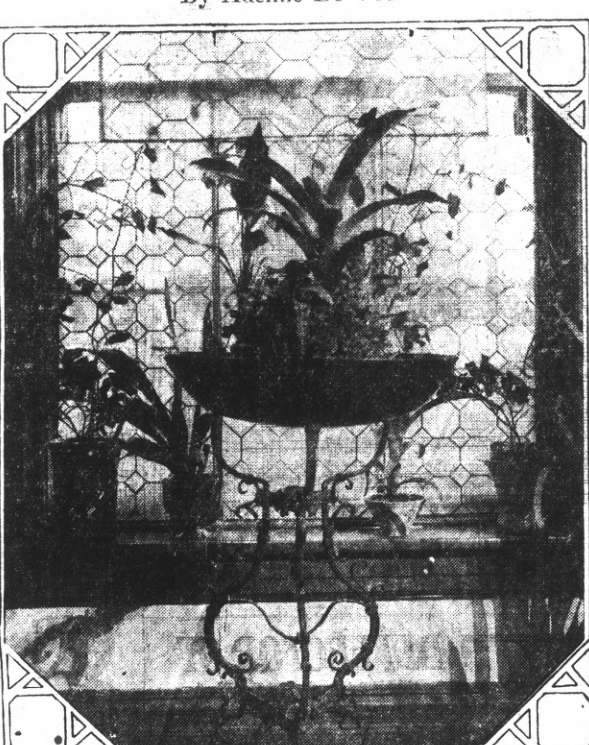

With the vogue for colorful pottery and cacti in various shapes and shades we have the material for remarkable windows. Cacti pots, as queerly shaped as the plants themselves, are now available in many different forms and colors, and it is great fun to play with them, trying to fit the right species to the right pot or bowl.

In arranging one group which included a number of cacti, modern dapperies made a particularly good background for the setting. The over-curtains were of white cotton cloth with a design of pink and turquoise pointed leaves that have rather the feeling of cacti. The sill was not deep enough for our purpose, so a very narrow table was used as a shelf in front of the window. Over the top we placed a cover of silver fabric draped with coral-colored wool. This practical cloth gave a neutral ground for the colored pots and also prevented damage to the table through moisture leaking from the pots.

For our centerpiece we chose a modern porcelain group showing a mother tossing her baby high in the air, and we put the little lady under the shade of what seemed like a great pinkish-gray tree—in reality an echinacea, a succulent cactus that is very beautiful in color and grows in the form of a tree. The bowl for this plant was of soft pearl-gray pottery with drippings of blue and pink along the edge.

Next to the cactus tree was a bowl of deep violet glass in which was growing a little prickly puff ball cactus in shades of pink. The bowl on the left was a bright yellow ceramic filled with another form of cacti—a little flat, leafy thing. The tall vase was of turquoise blue which repeated the note of blue in the curtains. To the left of it was a most interesting pot—a copy of an old Roman urn of yellow iridescent glass, and in this was still another type of cacti in tones of grayish blue-green.

The porcelain figure was in colors accenting those in the curtains and the grouping as a whole was literally a study in color values, lighted by the sun as it streamed in through the window. The photograph shows a window that was planned to shut out an ugly view. Instead of using curtains to mark the window the glass was removed and the ash filled with opalescent kapa-shell which lets in plenty of light for growing ferns and ivy, yet obscures the view. Here, too, we used plants of cactus-like structure. In the great wrought iron urn we placed a mass of bark and moss to support one of those plants having a hollow center which may be filled with water and used as a vase to hold an orchid or one of those bright yellow blooms that look like a bird of paradise or some other exotic bloom of brilliant color. "Another pretty window treatment would be one using little swinging candle brackets attached to the window frame and taper which could be lighted at night. From the inside it is beautiful to see the light shining down through the green things—and the view is equally lovely to those who look in from out of doors.

With the keenest pleasure I remember many interesting windows seen in German homes during my trips abroad. There they often fasten tiny false bay windows to the outside of the true windows and keep them filled with flowers, while on shelves inside the windows little white porcelain love birds are perched as though nesting among the greens. Then candles lighted at night and placed in the windows make the spot seem a veritable fairyland. We need these ingenious touches in American homes where the tendency is to be much too conventional. In the city where it is so difficult to keep flowers growing it is always possible to get ivy, Japanese water plants or cacti, all of which thrive almost anywhere. In the winter, if one doesn't wish to use growing flowers, the white Pope's Money in a thin glass vase makes a lovely pattern against the window pane. And a further word should be said about ornaments: In using the more or less crude ceramic pots one should avoid colors that are too violent. The color of the pot should not detract from the flowers, but is better when it is more or less neutral, or when chosen to accent the coloring of the plants. And pots should always be of a shape that enhances the outline of the plant. In choosing growing things for the

Van Loon's "Rembrandt"

Hendrik Willem van Loon came to Paris recently to say that he is working away on a biography of Rembrandt. Nothing in all Holland, perhaps, could be as serviceable to him in recreating the atmosphere of the Golden Century of Dutch history in which Rembrandt lived as the very house and town in which the author resides. In Vere, Zealand, Dr. van Loon occupies one of those medieval mansions that were built by merchant princes when the town was a flourishing centre of trade. Vere has long since fallen into decline, but the mansions, which were built for eternity, remain intact. The rest of Holland is completely modernized. Vere, on the contrary, is heavily perfumed with the past, a past, let it be said, not without grandeur. Present day Vere has something of the melancholy wisdom of the dead cities of Flanders. And also something of their spirituality and mysticism. Soaked in that atmosphere for a few years, Dr. van Loon has perhaps felt more keenly the tragedy of Rembrandt's life. He has, moreover, within a short distance from his home, at The Hague and Amsterdam, the masterpieces of the Dutch master and the archives which contain the painter's personal letters and effects. There was not much of the gaiety of a Franz Hals in Rembrandt, nor was he a man of the boundless happy disposition of Pieter Brueghel, of whom the Flemish writer Timmermans has recently written a biography which is largely fictional because of the slender data available on Brueghel's life. Dr. van Loon's simple and effective style and pleasant humor, of which America had a sample recently in his work on Peter Stuyvesant, promises us a new diversion of distinguished and absorbing interest.

A Question of Pens

It was ten years ago on June 29 that the Treaty of Peace was signed in the Hall of Mirrors at the Chateau of Versailles. The delegates of the Reich were on that occasion Herr Hermann Muller, who is Chancellor to-day, and Herr Ball, former Minister. The papers had announced at that time that the allied and enemy plenipotentiaries were to sign the historic document with a golden pen offered by Alsace and Lorraine. The incident was recalled in the Berlin press a few weeks ago when Germany commemorated Versailles by a national mourning of ten days. But Herr Muller promptly denied that he had made use of the golden pen. As soon as he learned about the special "style," he purchased one of his own, and his colleague, Herr Ball, simply borrowed one from the writing room of a local Versailles hotel. In the confusion and emotion of the signing both trembled so that they had their fingers all smeared with ink, and some thing that did not happen to the Allied delegates. One cannot understand very well why the German Chancellor should make the fact public. The essential fact that he did sign remains.

Hot Weather Advice

If the skin is kept well cleansed, dead cuticle is removed and the skin is made a better radiator. This helps to control body temperature, and is especially important in warm weather.

When You Entertain

WHEN there are guests for dinner on a hot day try the following for a dessert. Add one cup water to a pound of sugar and dissolve over fire, add the grated rind of an orange and boil five minutes. Remove from the fire and strain. Add one pint cherry juice, the juice of two oranges and one lemon, cool and freeze. Serve in glasses and garnish with two or three whole pitted cherries on top of each glass. A grape juice sherbet is easily made. Use a quart of grape juice. Melt two cupsful of sugar with a little grape juice, add juice of one lemon and pour this mixture with rest of the grape juice over a quart of milk and freeze.

Summer Notes

A yellow aspic salad garnished with purple grapes makes an appealing dish on a hot day.

Flies and mosquitoes are two pests that should be vigorously fought, for both are disease carriers. Effective repellents for both are obtainable, so there is no excuse for having these dangerous insects in the home.

Air in motion is more cooling, so keep the electric fan going but place it in such position that you will avoid a draught.

UP IN THE AIR FOR GOOD

THE logical successor to cross-word puzzles, channel swimming and saving cigar coupons seems to be airplane endurance flights. Everybody who can get more than a two weeks' vacation is planning to take to the air and improve on the record of Mendell and Reinhart. For years the limit in futile effort was the six-day race. Thirty or forty able-bodied men would circle a clap-board squirrel trap for six days and at the end of that time they would be where they started. The birdmen have improved on that. It is now possible to fly in circles above an airfield for two weeks and come down right in your take-off tracks.

We do not know what these endurance flights will lead to. Each one is better than the previous test. In time it may be possible to stay up for months at a time and avoid the landlord and installment collectors.

Messrs. Mendell and Reinhart have already bettered the record of Alvin (Shipwreck) Kelly. To Mr. Kelly, it will be remembered, any flag pole was home, sweet home. He would climb up a flag pole till he reached half-mast and make that his abode for days and days. To Alvin (Shipwreck) Kelly a penthouse looked like a basement apartment.

But now aviators are living up in the air for longer periods than the great flag pole dweller. It is possible now to tuck off in an airplane with a dozen grapefruit and some Meibos toast in the cockpit and complete an eighteen-day diet before you come down. However, the weight you lose in flesh is liable to be offset by your whiskers. Every child who has ridden a merry-go-round will want to grow up and embark on an endurance flight. It is the same thing except you reach out and try to catch the retreating nose of a big wheel of a brass ring.

The Farmer's Advice

By Alfalfa Smith

THESE are the days of great business, but the greatest of these is the business of GROWING UP.

Are parents helping their children these days to GROW up to be useful citizens? Or are they too busy with bridge, big business and the rest of this hurrying world to take a little thought for the business in which their off-spring is engaged.

HELP YOUR CHILDREN TO GROW UP. Make it a business, the same as it is their business to GROW UP WELL.

FROM THE WISE

In my opinion, idleness is no less the pest of society than of solitude. Nothing contracts the mind, nothing engenders trifles, tales, backbiting, slander and falsities, so much as being shut up in a room, opposite each other, and reduced to no other occupation than the necessity of continual chattering.

MUSINGS ON MENUS MODERNISTIC

BY NANCY DORRIS

Copyright Press Publishing Company (New York World) 1929

Quite as important as the menu itself is the appearance and presentation of the modern meal. The appearance of a dish counts for so much that every culinary artist strives for decorative effect as well as dietary merit.

Eye and taste are now considered in planning, preparing and serving family fare. The art of garnishment is being cultivated by chefs and caterers. Where formerly the effectiveness of food was not given a much thought. As to season of the year is the garnishment of the table as telling as in summer. Salads and one piece meals lend themselves to interesting decorative touches. So does the appetizer tray and even the dessert course. Since salads do tempt the summer appetite. A word about their decoration may not be untimely. The same garnishments that add to the appearance of salads may be used for entrees, main dishes and appetizers.

Crisp greens for the bed upon which the salad is arranged lead the list of garnishments. Particularly is this true of the dainty filled salad so soothing to jaded palates. The secret of crisp salad greens is not far to seek: washing and freshening the lettuce, romaine, escarole, chicory, watercress or cabbage as soon as possible and placing it in a fresh cloth bag over the ice—or, in the case of an automatic refrigerator, storing the freshened, cleaned greens in a covered receptacle containing a bit of water overnight. In a salad bulletin recently received the following hints on attractive and simple garnishments were given: "Radish, Rose—Trim off all but an inch of the stem and cut away the root. With a sharp knife cut down from the tip toward the stem end five times. So that the turned decoration may stand out like petals of a flower. Drop the radishes into ice water; after an hour or two the petals stand out still further. "Celery Curle—Cut the inner stalks into three-or-four inch lengths. With a sharp knife cut each piece down into thin strips, stopping within an inch of the end. Drop into ice water; as they become chilled the thin strips curl up. "Pickle Parsnips—Cut sweet gherkins into thin parallel sections almost the entire length. Then carefully spread out the sections like a fan. This garnishment is particularly nice with jelly-fish salads. "Green or Red Peppers—Cut fresh peppers or pimientos across in thin slices, making rings; remove seeds and white membrane, or cut out small fancy shapes with vegetable cutters. "Fancy Cucumber Slices—Peel a cucumber, scratch it lengthwise with the prongs of a fork, and slice in thin rounds or diagonal slices. "Pickled Beets—Sliced, diced, chopped, or cut in fancy shapes. "Shredded Lettuce—Strip the outer leaves of crisp lettuce into fine shreds with the kitchen scissors. The coarse middle stem may be discarded. "Tomato Wedges—Remove skin and stem from small ripe tomatoes. Cut down lengthwise into ½-inch wedges. Pour French dressing over them and chill one hour. With cucumber slices these are nice for moulded salad dainties. "Lemon Slices—These may be served plain or sprinkled with minced parsley or chives. Plain and parsley-sprinkled slices arranged alternately are good with fish salads."

MISS HOPE BENNETT WEARS THE VOILEE FOR A BRIGHT AND KEEFISH. WISE WALK.

Gay Little Head Kerchief Is Emphasized at Newport Colony

By HELEN WORDEN

(New York World) 1929

The verge for the gay little head kerchief is emphasized by Miss Hope Bennett at Newport. This Paisley patterned three-cornered scarf is knotted tightly about her head and caught in a soft bow at the nape of the neck.

It is a fashion that is becoming to young and pretty girls, and one that is in favor season after season.

With the brief scarf, Miss Bennett wears a sleeveless one piece sports frock of washable polka dotted crepe. The severity of the sleeveless line is softened by a wide cape collar edged in a fluff of ruffle of the crepe. Large pearl buttons hold the front closed. In place, a single pocket trimmed in fluted ruffled ornaments the skirt and a ribbed cuff is attached to the hip yoke furnishes additional variation to the skirt.

Miss Bennett wears a long strand of pearl beads, a wide slave bracelet, nude silk stockings and one strap white and brown kid sports sandals. She carries a figure fabric pouch bag.

The tennis tournament is holding the attention of the fashionable folk at Newport. Numerous luncheons and dinners have been planned in honor of the visiting English contestants. The interest of the younger set of which Miss Bennett is a member centers on the large dance, which is to be given for the champions.

and declared that the present charter of Richmond had been obsolete for the last 20 years.

"We need industries and payrolls in Richmond," he declared. "We cannot hope to have the same favorable living conditions as larger cities if we do not have a payroll."

"Practically 60 percent of the local industrial employees live outside of Richmond. If that 60 percent lived here we could buy things cheaper here because of the turnover. But it is lower taxes that entice these employees to live outside of Richmond."

"We have been termed radicals because we are attempting to lower taxes. We are not radicals. We want the best form of city government possible and we want criticism as long as it is honest and just. We are trying to help the people and thereby help the state."

CHINESE FLEE FROM RED TROOPS

(Copyright by United Press)

HARBIN, Manchuria, July 24.—UP—Residents of the border town of Manchuli who arrived here today said that panic had been created along the frontier by the appearance of Russian soldiers' tents within sight of Manchuli and by an advance of Soviet troops across the border.

The refugees, who fled the town shortly after the appearance of the troops, said Chinese forces had hastily retreated into Manchuli as all residents—Chinese, whites and Reds—left in motor cars, carts, and overloaded trains. Six armored Russian trains also appeared near Manchuli where they were still stationed when the refugees departed.

Later messages from Manchuli said the remaining population had quieted down and shops were reopening as the result of an understanding that Russian troops probably would withdraw to avoid danger of clashes.

RAINBOW MAN TO END RUN TONIGHT

Earlier talking pictures had an element of inconsistency in them as regards the interpolation of music and songs, but "The Rainbow Man" is a fine example of how this has been overcome by making the music and songs an integral part of the plot and action.

Here this is done is shown by mentioning the spots in the plot in which vocal and instrumental music have fitting places.

The song "Smile Little Pal" is introduced in a vivid theater dressing room. Then there is the music of the minstrel men on parade. During the introductory scenes of Eddie Dowling and the girl, played by Marion Nixon, Dowling sings "Mary, Mary Quite Contrary."

In the minstrel show, Eddie Dowling, as "Rainbow Man," sings "Sleepy Valley" and "Rainbow Man." Other numbers featured prominently by the minstrel company on this stage are "Sleepy Valley," "The Curtain" and "Tombstone Tune."

There is a burlesque in a New York street, a quartet in a Southern town, singing "Smile Little Pal," and the principal songs in the closing of the story in a theater scene.

This picture is a Paramount production, produced by Fred Newmeyer, and directed by Fred Newmeyer. It is Eddie Dowling's first appearance in any film and Marion Nixon's first appearance in the talkies.

This picture closes its engagement tonight at the Fox-California theater. The talking comedy on this program is "Framing of the Shrew."

GLAD RAG DOLL WILL START FRIDAY

Kipling was right about the Colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady being sisters under the skin. At least, it seemed so at the late fête given by the aristocratic Fairchilds, when an unwelcome "actress person" and a super-annuated but kitchinish admiral, guest of honor at the reception, went among the sedate dancers and proceeded to put on a highly colored version of the Varsity Drag.

At first the supercilious ladies and gentlemen gazed on the spectacle in disdain and disapproval, and the hostess was in a torment of consternation. But within a few minutes the guests without exception were all reveling in the abandon of the new dance, "dragging it" furiously and enjoying themselves to the utmost.

This forms one of the amusing scenes in the new Warner Brothers' Vitaphone production "The Glad Rag Doll" coming to the Fox-California theater tomorrow, which stars Dolores Costello, and presents an unusually excellent supporting cast with Charles Ralph Graves, Audrey Ferris, Albert Gran, Arthur Rankin, Maude Turner Gordon, Tom Ricketts, Dale Fuller, Claude Gilmore, Andre Beranger, Tom Kennedy and Lee Moran. Michael Curtiz directed, and C. Graham Baker wrote the scenario, based on an original story by Harvey Gates. "The Glad Rag Doll" has much diverting comedy mingled with its drama. Also on the bill is a Fox Talking Weekly and a Movietone act featuring the Toot Sisters.

NEW VETERANS' INSURANCE EXPLAINED

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 24.—The privilege that has again been extended to all veterans of the World war to take out government life insurance is explained in detail by Frank T. Hines, director of the United States Veterans' Bureau, in an article that will appear in the August issue of the American Legion Monthly.

As director of the Veterans' Bureau, Hines is in direct charge of the government's insurance business. In the article he stresses the value of insurance and the advantages offered veterans by taking out government policies.

"It will be real news to many service men, veterans of the World war—important news too—that the right to obtain a United States Government life insurance policy is still open to them, providing they are in good health," the article will say.

"Congress on May 29, 1928, amended the World War Veterans' Act extending indefinitely the period in which applications could be filed for government policies by those entitled to them. The privilege had expired on July 2, 1927, except for new entrants in the service. It is noteworthy that in the few months before this time limit expired approximately 250,000 men filed applications for policies."

"Under the amended law the former service man has very definite insurance rights today. The government will grant him insurance in seven forms of policies against death or total permanent disability. He may take out a policy for $1000 or $10,000, or for any multiple of $500 between those sums. The right is granted to any veteran of the World war who has hitherto applied for or been eligible to apply for yearly renewable term insurance—war-time insurance—or United States Government insurance—converted insurance."

"But to get insurance now a service man must be in good health and furnish evidence to that effect which is satisfactory to the director of the Veterans' Bureau. And the total amount of government insurance he can carry is $10,000. If he already has a policy for $5000 he is permitted to take a new policy of no more than $5000. Finally he must have served in the military or naval forces of the United States sometime in the course of the World war, from April 6, 1917, to July 2, 1921, and have applied or been eligible to apply for insurance."

"The Veterans' Bureau provides a standard form—Bureau Form 722—for use in making applications, but any statement in writing sufficient to identify the applicant, the amount and the plan of insurance, together with a report of a physical examination and a remittance sufficient to cover the first monthly premium, will be sufficient as an application for insurance. A physical examination will be made free of charge at any regional office or hospital of the United States Veterans' Bureau. This examination may also be secured, at the expense of the applicant, from any reputable physician licensed to practice medicine."

Alameda Fireman Has Busy Evening
ALAMEDA, July 24.—Up—Among the events of Fireman Joseph Morgan's night off were: 1. Arrested for dashing across a downtown street against the traffic signal.
2. Delivered a public denunciation of the police department atop an ash can.
Punched a policeman in the eye.
4. Spent the rest of the night in jail.
Following his violation of the traffic rule, Morgan was taken to jail, bailed himself out and returned to the scene of his arrest. Mounting an ash can, he told the populace of his arrest. When an officer remonstrated with him, Morgan punched him in the eye.
Morgan spent the rest of his night off in the city jail.

Dairy Show To Open On Aug. 9

VALLEY FORD, July 24.—(U.P.)—Choice producing dairy cattle, purebred swine, poultry and finest sheep of Marin and Sonoma counties will be featured in exhibits at the Western Sonoma-Marin Dairy Cattle Show, to be held at Valley Ford, Aug. 9-10-11.

Present indications are that the 1929 show will be the greatest ever staged in the coast region. More interest has been shown in the coming fair than ever before, according to fair officials, and it is expected that every space in the show grounds will be allotted to growers of prize stock.

The fair program, as tentatively outlined, will include stock judging and awarding of ribbons, daily band concerts and dances, a baby show, and awarding of two automobiles to winners in the campaign being conducted in connection with the show this year.

Curiosity Brings Arrest, Sentence

SALINAS, July 24.—(U.P.)—The height of curiosity was illustrated here when four Filipino boys beat John Bausista on the neck with a monkey wrench and then followed him to the city jail to see what would happen.

They were arrested and placed in jail.

As explanation for the attack the boys stated that Bausista, by whom they were employed, owed them money for back wages.

REGISTRATION OF CARS ON INCREASE

SACRAMENTO, July 24.—Sharp gains in motor vehicle registrations in California for the first six months of 1929, amounting to 156,151 for all types of fee paid registrations, over the corresponding period of one year ago, were reported today by the Division of Motor Vehicles.

Fee-paid registrations for the period, inclusive of trailers, amounted to a grand total of 1,859,523 as compared with 1,703,372 for the same period of 1927.

Based on this showing, Frank G. Snook, chief of the division, estimated a gain of at least 200,000 for the full year, 1929, and a possible gain in fees amounting to nearly $1,500,000.

Records of the division show more than $5,600,000 was collected in registration fees during the period on passenger cars alone, a figure indicating the so-called "saturation point" is far from being reached despite the fact that practically every family in California has some kind of a car.

Comparative registrations for the respective six-months period of each year were reported as follows:

	1928	1929
Passenger	1,464,060	1,737,951
Trucks (solid)	34,359	19,462
Trucks (air)	165,109	57,473
Motorcycles	8,079	8,100
Trailers	31,763	36,527
TOTALS	1,703,372	1,859,523

Trucks Lose

The heavy loss in registrations of pneumatic and solid tire trucks is explained by the fact that the Wagby bill threw a large number of vehicles, formerly registered in these classifications, into the passenger car column. Under the Wagby bill, vehicles weighing less than 3000 pounds are required to pay only the regular fee of $3 for registration.

A large part of the gain in passenger cars is due to the same cause.

An apparent increase in the popularity of the motorcycle is indicated. This type of motor vehicle shows a slight gain, the first in several years.

County Total

The division's transfer records show 301,000 cars changed hands in California during the period, a gain over last year of some 22,000.

Among the counties, Los Angeles, as usual, leads all others with 755,775 fee-paid registrations while San Francisco comes second with 142,321 and Alameda third with 133,166.

Contra Costa county registered a total of 22,734 vehicles for the period divided as follows: passenger cars 21,436; solid trucks, 235; pneumatic trucks 597; motorcycles 169; trailers 297.

INSPIRATION

DESIRE TO SERVE YOU INSPIRED BY YOUR HONEST APPRECIATION

WORK, and the zeal to continue it,—the heart and the desire to serve you well with better merchandise and lower prices,—it is you, our patrons, whose honest appreciation inspires it!

Our every achievement, the degree of perfection we attain unto, the service we render, our endeavor to please in every detail, these we know are the things responsible for the rewards that attend us. But the fact of financial reward alone could never lead us on. It is rather the knowledge that you, with unbiased opinion, see fit to favor us; that you, in your cheerful and willing attitude of co-operation give us preference,—'tis such knowledge that acts as our underlying inspiration.

Inspiration—a quality of the spirit, a thing felt in the heart, an elusive sentiment that only your ready good wishes could keep brightly fired! Without you who so inspire us our institutions would die spiritually, and so pass quickly into the discard.

Firemen, Agents Awaiting Big Game Saturday

Tom Hathaway and J. L. Conlon, managers of the Firemen and Insurance Agents football teams, are lining up their lines and sending their squads through stiff workouts awaiting the big championship game Saturday at First street field.

Hathaway has figured the world that the Firemen will wait away with the harem while Conlon is just as sure that the Agents will take the victory.

The contest should be one of the best in the Richmond Commercial Twilight league as both teams are on their toes.

During the season both outfits won seven and lost three contests to tie for the league lead.

Jack Burg will chuck for the Agents and Leo Schroeder will be on the mound for the Firemen during the contest.

The game will start promptly at four o'clock Saturday afternoon. W. L. "Doc" Seawright announced.

Legion In War On Solicitors For 'Relief'

MOBILE, Ala., July 24.—The city of Mobile has started a war on alleged solicitors for "veteran benefit" and has recognized the American Legion as the official representative of the World war ex-service men.

Leon Schwartz, city commissioner and veteran who attended the Paris caucus of the Legion, commenting on the action said:

"Hereafter applications for permits to conduct entertainment performances in Mobile, or solicit funds as benefits of ex-service men will have to carry the endorsement of the American Legion post executive committee to obtain favorable consideration."

"This action was taken by the commission after a committee of Lamar Y. McLeod Post of the Legion had asked that any sale of tickets or solicitation of funds for the benefit of the ex-service men should be regulated in such a manner to enable the public to know the causes to be worthy."

Oakland Elks To Meet Local Bills Sunday

Oakland and Richmond Elks will meet Sunday at the First street field in the second game of the Elks league, according to Manager George Shaw of the local bills.

On the following Sunday, Alameda will come to Richmond, making the first three games home games for the local team. Dutch Kogler will probably pitch for the locals Sunday. Oakland is rated as one of the best teams in the circuit, despite its defeat at the hands of the Alameda team last Sunday.

Lacoste Will Not Play In Cup Tourney

PARIS, July 24.—(U.P.)—Rene Lacoste, French tennis ace, will not play in the Davis Cup challenge round against the United States Friday, Saturday and Sunday. It was officially announced today.

"He is much too weak to attempt to play," Lacoste's private physician told the United Press. The line up of France's team, tentatively announced today, will be Henri Cochet, Jean Borotra, Jacques Brugnon and Christian Bussus.

Bussus, the young blonde southpaw who replaces Lacoste, is only 22 and will be the youngest player in the Challenge round if he gets into action. John Van Ryan and George Lott, the youngest players in the American team are 21.

With Lacoste off the team, Cochet and Borotra will have to shoulder the burden of defending the Davis Cup. They are certain to play in the singles and may also play in the doubles.

OAKS DEFEAT SEALS IN SECOND

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—(U.P.)—The fourth place San Francisco Missions were only three games behind the league-leading San Francisco Seals and other teams of the first division of the Pacific Coast league, Los Angeles and Hollywood, had moved closer to the leaders after contests today.

The Seals were losing to Oakland, 8 to 2, while the Angels were beating Sacramento, 3 to 2, in 10 innings, the Seals were conquering Seattle, 9 to 4, and the Missions were defeating Portland, 3 to 0, in regularly scheduled encounters.

Six runs scored by Oakland in the seventh inning assured them of victory. The Angels tied the count with one run in the ninth.

Then scored once in the tenth to win. Hollywood was one run ahead when the ninth inning started but made five in that frame to leave no doubt of its superiority. Pillette was on the mound for the Missions and shut out the Beavers with five hits.

There were two second games today, each of which counted on the first half of the league standings. They were won by the Missions and Seattle and were both shut out, making a total of three for the day. The score for the Missions over Portland was 9 to 0 and Seattle beat Hollywood in the twilight affair, 5 to 0.

Lois Grow Will Compete At Meet In Honolulu Soon

Lois Grow, Crockett swimmer, will compete in the National A. A. U. swimming championship matches at Honolulu next month, according to an announcement made today by workers for the Western Women's club in San Francisco.

Miss Grow is the recent winner of the 100 yard free style swim at Neptune beach.

NEW YORK ACTS TWELFTH DAY TO GET BIG BOUT PASSED BY FLIERS

NEW YORK, July 24.—(U.P.)—The first step towards saving the Max Schmeling-Jack Sharkey heavyweight match for New York was made today when Commissioner William Muldoon said the New York State Athletic Commission did not demand that the German heavyweight meet Phil Scott of England, but only fulfill a contract to box under Humbert J. Fugazy's promotion.

Although Schmeling has reiterated that he will never fulfill any contract made for him by his former manager, Arthur Purcell, the German may capitulate now that Scott has been eliminated as his opponent.

Muldoon made the contract with Fugazy, but he did not have anything to do with Scott's selection as an opponent.

Schmeling's board of American managers—Joe Jacobs, Bill McCahey, Pete Reilly and others—want no part of Scott. They can easily see where the long-armed British fire laddie may outpoint their pet and ruin a possible million dollar gate.

With Scott, who was run in by Jimmy Johnston, sidetracked temporarily, the interested parties—Madison Square Garden, Purcell, Muldoon, Schmeling's American managers and the New York commission—may get together, select another opponent for the German at Ebbets Field in August and clear the way for the Schmeling-Sharkey fight here in September.

The New York commission strengthened its position in the matter today by informing William F. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden, that the Garden faced a possible penalty of the loss of its license as a boxing club by tampering with Schmeling as long as he is under suspension.

Chairman James A. Farley pointed out that there was no similarity between the Schmeling-Sharkey controversy and the engagements which prevented the two Dempsey-Tunney fights from being held here.

Negro Returns From Trip To New Zealand

OAKLAND, July 24.—(U.P.)—In his effort to prove that "a black man can stand the climate of the South Pole," Robert W. Lanier, 20, negro, has risked his life dozens of times.

Lanier has returned to California following his deportation from New Zealand.

He stowed away on the City of New York, flagship of the Comdr. Byrd expedition, only to be put ashore at Panama and sent back to New York. He hiked on foot across the continent to San Francisco, nearly losing his life twice on the way, once in a Wyoming blizzard and again when he was overcome by heat in the Nevada desert.

Again while sailing aboard the steamer Golden State for New Zealand he was involved in a fight with a ship's officer. He was tried for assault in the New Zealand supreme court and acquitted. He was later deported as a prohibited immigrant.

Now the young negro is back in West Oakland, hunting for another chance to reach the South Pole.

encouraged the fliers who responded with flashes from their green Very pistols.

A multitude of congratulatory messages and promises of theatrical engagements poured in on the field below. Among the first messages received was one from Loren Mendell and Roland Reinhardt, pilots of the Angeleno, whose record of 246 hours the Robin eclipsed at 3 p. m. Tuesday.

"Those boys deserve a lot of credit," Mendell and Reinhardt wired, "We take off our hats to them. It's a great thing for aviation."

The fliers messaged they were confident they could outlast the two St. Louis endurance pilots.

Their decision to place Richmond on an equality with all the other east bay cities is regarded as highly significant and is taken to mean that these lines will now send their ships here on regular schedules as soon as sufficient tonnage has been developed. Formal notification of their decision was received by City Manager J.
A. McVittie from E. J. Watts, general secretary of the conference.

To File Schedule

Parr said his company will immediately file with the railroad commission their proposed schedule of tariffs.

"Under the plan," said Parr, "it would be possible for a carload of freight destined for a San Francisco warehouse to be discharged entirely at the Richmond terminal, and to be handled by us over the Southern Pacific via Dumbarton or over car ferries, and to reach its destination with a minimum of delay and at no more cost to the shipper than it had been unloaded direct at San Francisco. We believe that in some cases there will even be a saving in time for the shipper under this plan because there will be less congestion and quicker
action in handling cargoes here than is possible at some of the docks in San Francisco."

Report of the two developments
was made at the traffic committee of the Chamber of Commerce, of which W. W. Scott is chairman.

UNITED STATES, BRITAIN LAY PLANS FOR NAVY CUT SESSION

prime minister introduces the principle of parity which we have now adopted and its con-
summation means that Great Britain and the United States hence-
forth are not to compete in armaments
as potential opponents
but to co-operate as friends in
the reduction of it."

The president, in his statement
today, welcomed MacDonald's proposed visit in behalf of himself and the American people.

Cuts Army

The swift series of events in the last two days—the announcement by President Hoover yesterday that American army costs
must be reduced, formal proclamation of the Kellogg pact today, and the subsequent move for naval reduction—constituted an advance towards world peace sedum equalled in history.

It comes, too, on top of invocation of the Kellogg pact, pact
which was formally proclaimed, by the United States to avert the only threat today to world peace—the controversy between China and Russia.

The amazing procession of events startled diplomats here by its very boldness. President Hoover, it was generally conceded, has forced himself into the leadership of the world for international peace.

Lauds MacDonald

"I have read with real satisfaction the statement which the prime minister has made in the House of Commons," President Hoover said. "The American people are greatly complimented by his proposed visit and he will find a universal welcome."

"Mr. MacDonald's statement marks a new departure in discussion of naval disarmament.
The prime minister introduces the principle of parity which we have now adopted and its con-
summation means that Great Britain and the United States hence-
forth are not to compete in armaments
as potential opponents
but to co-operate as friends in
the reduction of it."

"The prime minister has stated clearly and unmistakably the principles on which he is acting.
I cannot but be responsive to the generous terms in which he has spoken of the attitude and purpose of the United States."

Good Will

"Macdonald has indicated the good will and positive intention of the British government by suspension of construction of certain portions of this year's British naval program. It is the desire of the United States to show equal good will in our approach of the problem."

"We have three cruisers in this year's construction program which have been undertaken in the government navy yards, the detailed drawings for which are now in course of preparation.
The actual keels would in this ordinary course, be laid down
some time this fall."

"Generally speaking, the British cruiser strength considerably exceeds American strength at the present time and the actual construction of these three cruisers
would not be likely in themselves to produce inequality in the final result."

"We do not wish, however, to have any misunderstanding of our actions and therefore we shall not lay these keels until there has been an opportunity for full consideration of their effect upon the final agreement for parity
which we expect to reach, although our hopes of relief from construction are more largely in the latter years of the program
under the law of 1928."

New Program

By the law Hoover referred to the act providing 15 new cruisers and one aircraft carrier, to be laid down over a period of three years. This program will cost $274,500,000. Three of the cruisers to be laid down this year will be built in government yards and two in private shipyards. President Hoover has not power to hold up building by private shipyards, unless an agreement for further arm limitation is signed.
Plans already have been drawn for the three cruisers to be built at government yards and the contracts awarded to navy
yards at Puget Sound, Brooklyn
and Philadelphia.

A few weeks ago, Secretary of State Stimson made public figures showing that the budget program provided for the next few years, which includes the scheduled replacement of battleships in 1931, would cost over a billion dollars. This announcement, ostensibly addressed to the taxpayers of the country, was the first step in the general move for disarmament culminating in President Hoover's statement today.

Visit In Fall

President Hoover's welcome to Macdonald is regarded as assuring the British premier's visit this fall. He said himself in the House of Commons that he expected to come here in October.
American Ambassador Dawes has assured MacDonald that he would be welcome here and the open expression today from Hoover will make the visit certain.

The simultaneous announcements today from MacDonald and President Hoover were seen as the result of negotiations carried on by Dawes and as paving the way for the further disarmament of which there has been talk for several years, dating from a few years after the first move in 1921 sponsored by the United States through the conference here.

Final success of the Hoover-MacDonald move is believed of most certain because of this spirit which has prevailed in all negotiations. Once the United States and Great Britain eliminate their differences, the way
is open for a general conference,
as MacDonald pointed out today.
They are the two principal sea-powers. It was a difference between these two that disrupted
the Geneva conference of 1926,
called by President Coolidge.

Parity Accepted

Macdonald's acceptance of the principle of parity was the outstanding point in his speech today, as President Hoover pointed out in his statement. The United States has always insisted that it must have a navy equal to that of Great Britain.

A general conference might not necessarily follow very closely upon an agreement between the United States and Great Britain
over their points of difference.
Under the Washington arms treaties, a conference is to be held in 1931 to consider revision of the limitation treaty made at that time. The other nations might follow the United States and Great Britain by general declarations for reduction, perhaps also by suspension of building programs, the actual steps to await the 1931
conference.

MACDONALD TELLS OF VISIT TO U. S.

LONDON, July 24.—UP—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald announced in the House of Commons today that the Labor government has decided to suspend work on the 1929 naval program
in connection with the present
negotiations with the United States for a naval arms limitation agreement.

The prime minister said he expects to visit Washington, probably in October, to confer with President Hoover on the naval issue, which is the one great obstacle to be removed before universal disarmament progress can be continued.

The world naval powers, which have been informed of the present negotiations between Macdonald and American Ambassador Charles G. Dawes, will be invited to a preliminary naval arms conference as soon as the United States and Great Britain
have cleared the way by an agreement, the prime minister added.

Indications that the Anglo-American negotiations will be within the League of Nations framework were confirmed when Macdonald said that the expected agreement will "then be reported to the preparatory commission of the League of Nations as a contribution to its work."

SOUTH FOREST FIRE SPREADS

SANTA PAULA, July 24.—UP

The destructive forest fire that has been raging for three days northeast of Piru, tonight had eaten its way into the Santa Barbara national forest despite the efforts of 300 fire fighters.

Damage will be very heavy because the national forest is the principle watershed for a large section of Ventura county.

More than 2000 acres already have been burned over and unless there is a change in weather conditions, the fire may continue for several days, according to fire warden at the scene.

FOUR HURT IN S. F. RACE RIOT

SAN FRANCISCO, July 24.—UP

Hard feelings between Mexico
and Italian laborers at the Pacific Coast Steel mills in South
San Francisco broke into violence today with a result that one workman was reported dying and three others were seriously hurt.

Stab wounds in the chest made the condition of John Hanlon
an electrician, critical tonight.
The others hurt were John Butler, cable operator, E. Navarro and A. O'Campo, Mexican laborers. More than 20 men were said to have been involved in the feud
but only the four injured were participants in the fight. Warrants were issued for the arrest of Navarro and O'Campo as investigators of the trouble.

BANK VAULTS USED BY PETTERS

CHICAGO, July 24.—(U.P.)—Joseph Stevens, guardian of coin, is authority for the revolutionary statement that it doesn't necessarily take moonlight and a park bench to make the flower of romance blossom.

A cool bank vault, Stevens asserts, has tripped many a youth to the altar, and on the other hand, has tripped many a husband.

Stevens, responsible for the valuable contents of the vault of one of Chicago's largest banks,
has to be a little more observing than the ordinary park policeman, but Joe was young once himself and being a true sentimentalist considers himself a sort of cupid.

He probably wouldn't have brought up the subject of love in a vault except that he wanted to explain a joke, which is secondary to the description of Joe's love garden.

"It's quite the thing, now, you know," Joe explained, "for young fellows and old ones too, to rent a safety deposit box. Sometimes I used to wonder what on earth
some of the youngsters expected to keep in the vault, but now I'm wise."

"As soon as they have paid
the rent on the box, they appear with their 'secretaries' or their stenographers."

"Darn good looking 'secretaries', too, if you ask me, and it's funny
how long it takes some of these young businessmen to acquaint their assistants with the business papers in the vault."

"Sometimes the older ones try to kid me by saying they are bringing their 'secretaries' down to check up on bond coupons, but they don't fool me any. I know they are just bringing their girls down here for a quiet, private little spoon."

out of 21 major appointments to offices controlling the Borough of Queens made by Borough Pres-

outstanding work for the nation in the World War. Harvey, a

NEW BUICKS TO BE ON DISPLAY SATURDAY

The new 1930 Buick line will be presented to the public next Saturday.

According to E. T. Strong, president of the Buick Motor company, the 1930 Buick will far surpass in power, speed and in beauty any previous creation of the company which for more than twenty-five years has dominated the fine car field.

For months past a veritable barrage of rumors has been laid down on the Buick factory—rumors and reports as to what Buick would do in 1930. Predictions have been made concerning the 1930 line that have exhausted
the ingenuity of rumor purveyors; but back of all this verbal smoke, the Buick organization has silently worked toward the perfection of this new 1930 car
which, it is expected, will captivate the admiration of the morning public next Saturday.
The C. C. Kratzer agency will have the new models on display in Richmond.

Details of the new specifications have not been announced,
but there is more than in intimation that the 1930 Buick will be a bigger and more powerful car than any of its 26 predecessors; that the big 31 horsepower motor in the 40 and 50 models of the 1929 line and the 34 horse-power engine in the smaller model will be even bigger and faster in the new 1930 cars—but, how much bigger will not be learned until the car is offered to the public.

Information about the new body lines is even more meagre. Officials at the Buick plant have indicated that the new car will present an appearance differing in many details from the present model, and such officials as have seen the car are enthusiastic over its lines.

in the bottom of the piece.
When the sacks are empty,
fill them again.
